IS IT A BOODLE COMBINE?

SHARP EYES TURNED UPON THE ALDERMEN.

PECULIAR ACTIONS IN REGARD TO THE APPLICA-TION OF THE WOMAN'S HOSPITAL FOR PER-

MISSION TO SELL A BLOCK OF LAND. Is there a "combine of 1893" in the Board of Aldermen, having aims and purposes similar to those of the "combine of 1884"? This is what some people have been saying of late. Their reasons for so believing are based upon the delay which attends the Board's action in the matter of the ap-plication of the trustees of the Woman's Hospital to sell the block now occupied by it, so that other property further up town may be purchased and hospital removed to the new site. The block is bounded by Forty-ninth and Fiftieth sts., and Lexington and Fourth aves., and was deeded by the city for a woman's hospital in January, 1859, and it was stipulated that it must be used for no other purpose. About $250,000 has been spent in erecting buildings and improvements, and it is now valued at $1,000,000.

For two or three years the trustees have been anxious to remove to a more eligible site, in Eightharxious to remove to a more eligible site, in Eighth-are, fronting on Central Park, between Ninety-second and Ninety-third six, and the trustees asked the Board of Aldermen of 1891 for authority fo sell the old site and buildings to obtain the money for buying the new site and erecting new hospital structures. The application hung fire in the Board, and the trustees secured a special act of the Legislature authorizing the Board to grant their

A fresh application under this act was made on January 30 last, and as an inducement the trustees agreed to maintain twenty-four free beds in the new hospital for patients sent by the Mayor and The application was referred to the Law Committee, who gave a public hearing in Some members suggested that the free beds ought to be thirty-one in number, instead of twenty-four, so that each Alderman could have one, but there were no audible objections, and Joseph H. Choate and Henry R. Beekman, the representatives of the hospital at the hearing, looked for a favorable report. Six months "ave passed and the application is still in the hands of the committee. Its members are John F. Oakley, chairman; Rollin M. Morgan, Francis J. Lantry, William H. Schott and S. W. Smith. Vice-President Andrew A. Noonan has taken a lively interest in the matter, although hot a member of the committee. It is understood New-York Central Railroad Company is ready to pay $1,000,000 for the property when the hospital trustees can give a clear title, but this is not possible without favorable action by the Alder-

"An impression prevails among certain Alder men." a young lawyer who has been watching this matter said yesterday, "that the trustees can afford matter said yesterday, "that the trustees can afford to pay liberally for getting this concession through the board, and they are waiting for an offer. No-body is disposed to tell yet what influences have been exerted to prevent the Law Committee from making a report, but the story will come out in time. It will make some men feel sick."

It was reported yesterday that the hospital people had been trying to interest Mr. Croker in the application, but without success.

> BETTER-A QUARREL OVER WAGES CAUSED THE TROUBLE.

There was a commotion in West Sixty-sixth-st. Yesterday morning, when a crazy Italian laborer tried to kill several persons and was shot dead by a policeman. He was employed in digging an ex-cavation for the East River Gas Company's pipes under the elevated railroad station at Sixty-sixth-st, and Columbus-ave. John F. Swift, the foreman of the gang, discharged the Italian on Wednesday afternoon. Yesterday morning the Italian back and demanded more money from He followed the foreman about for minutes, muttering and complaining. Then he drew a large revolver, with seven oaded chambers, from his pocket and began to shoot at Swift. He fired twice without hitting the foreman, who dodged behind a column of the levated railroad and yelled for help. The Italian fired two shots more at John McDonald, a laborer, who threw a couple of stones at him. Policeman Michael McCormack came running up and shouted.

At sight of the policeman the Italian fired two ore shots. He appeared to be will his eyes glittered with a murderous light. The po-liceman was untouched by the bullets, but he felt that he was in danger and he pulled his own revolver from his pocket in a hurry. He pointed the "Drop that!"

The Italian flung away the revolver, but promptly drew a dagger with a double-edged blade, almost a foot long, and as sharp as a razor. With the shining blade in his hand the Italian made a rush at the policeman. McCormack pulled the trigger of his revolver twice, but the weapon was not discharged. He dodged the Italian, and ran along Sixty-sixth-st. As he shoved the revolver into his pocket to draw his club it was discharged bullet tore a hole in his trousers. He ran around a street car in the Boulevard, with the Italian in close pursuit, when Policeman William Bauer saw the Italian with the dagger pursuing McCormack. His shouts caused the Italian to turn toward him. By that time there was a crowd in the street and the occupants of a number of houses were looking out of the windows and uttering exclamations of astonishment and alarm. Bauer whipped his revolver out of his pocket and called upon the Italian to stop and surrender. The Italian showed his teeth and ran straight at the officer. Bauer again shouted "Stbp," and fired a shot over the Italian's head with the expectation of frightening him, but the Italian did ot stop. He was less than a dozen feet from the policeman when Bauer lowered his weapon a trifle policeman when Bauer lowered his weapon a triffe and fired a second shot. The Italian fell dead with a bullet through his heart.

The Italian was later identified as Gennaro Bufao, of No. 490 East One-hundred-and-fourteenthest. Superintendent Byrnes suspended Bauer, and directed his arraignment in a police court. Later Justice Grady at the Yorkville Court discharged Bauer, who returned to police duty. He will have to stand a trial before one of the commissioners, runder rule 199, but he is not likely to receive any punishment for killing a man in self-defence.

The State Civil Service Commission met yesterday at the Gilsey House to consider the position of the Board of Electrical Control. Since 1890 the board has refused to acknowledge that the commission had authority over it, basing its position on a decision made by Morgan J. O'Brien when he was Corporation Counsel. This decision has also been confirmed by Corporation Counsel Clark. Walton Storm, representing the Board of Electrical Control, appeared before the commission, and read the decisions and commented on them. The commission considered the subject in executive session. AFFAIRS IN BROOKLYN.

CHARGES AGAINST AN EX-SUPERVISOR. A motion was made before Judge Pratt in the Supreme Court yesterday for a bill of particulars by the defendants in the suit of the town of Pelham, Westchester County, against Samuel and Percy Pell, to recover $10,000 on the bond they gave for Supervisor Sherman T. Pell. When he was elected to office his father and brother gave bonds for him. Last March he was defeated for re-election by Supervisor McAllister. When the latter took office in May he applied to Pell for the books and omice in May he applied to relate the cooks and papers of the office, but failed to get them, and Pell disappeared. Affidavits were presented yes-terday charging that he absconded with $30,000 of the town funds. The counsel for the town said that Pell had removed or secreted all the records of the town. A month before he went away his books were audited and showed that he owed the town $8,585. The motion was denied.

DEATH UNDER AN EMBANKMENT.

While a number of laborers were engaged in digging a trench for the laying of pipes for the Will-iamsburg Gaslight Company at Harrison-ave. and Heyward-st, yesterday afternoon, the embankment suddenly caved in. Three of the workmen were buried beneath the sand and dirt. They were Philip Gaslio, thirty years old; John Smith, thirty-fou and Frank Drameio, thirty-one, of No. 66 Marketst., New-York. When the men were missed their companions began digging about the spot, soon covering Smith and Drameio. Both men quickly revived. It was some minutes later before Gaslio was brought to the surface. When examined by Ambulance Surgeon Rellly he was pronounced dead.

TO APPOINT A SUCCESSOR TO MR. NOLAN It is expected that the Supervisor-at-Large, Mr. Kinkel, will appoint a successor to the late Francis Nolan as Commissioner of Charities and Correction to-day. The law requires the place to be filled at once. Mr. Nolan's term expires on January 1, with that of Commissioner Murphy. Their suc-cessors for a term of four years must be appointed by the Supervisor-at-Large, on or before October 15. Messrs, Nolan and Murphy were appointed in Adolph Simis, who is his personal counsel, to hil the vacancy.

The funeral of Commissioner Nolan took place yesterday at St. Vincent de Paul Church, in North Sixth-st. It was attended by nearly all the city and county officials in Brooklyn, besides social and political organizations. The pall-bearers were Senator P. H. McCarren, Assessor Thomas J. Patterson, Ex-Coroner Felix Doyle, Arthur J. Higgins, Daniel Smith, James H. Holmes, Richard Cleary, sr., James F. Tully, Alderman, D. J. McGrath and Captain Samuel F. Hardy, The burial was in Calvary Cemetery.

Heizman was in the habit of reporting to his employer that buildings on which he was at work had been broken into and lead pipe and other material stolen. Sometimes only a faucet would be taken, and at others all the fixtures in the house, as well as the tools of the workmen, would be taken. The thefts were so frequent that Mr. Berla asked the police to investigate. They suspected Heizman and last night secured evidence against him. He was arrested and his house searched. Mr. Berla identified property valued at $500.

HOBOKEN

Ernst Kleeman, proprietor of Busch's Hotel, Hoboken, is confined to his room, from violence, as he alleges, at the hands of Herman Wendleken, He says Wendleken knocked him a constable, lown because he would not allow him and another officer to drag a chambermald out of the house on a charge of larceny. Dr. Kudlich says that when he was called to the hotel he found Kleeman unconscious, in which condition he remained for an hour. Wendleken could not be found yesterday, but Constable Thomas Wright, his companion said that they had a warrant for the arrest of Anna Eger, the chambermaid. She was charged by Mrs. Emma Froh, a former boarder, with steal-Mrs. Emma Froh, a former boarder, with stealing a silk dress, valued at $75. They showed their warrant, Wright says, to Kleeman, but he refused to let them arrest the girl, and locked the door. A row followed, and Wendieken struck Kleeman, who fell. They then took Miss Eger before Justice Rusch, but Mrs. Froh, who had accompanied them to identify the dress, refused to press the charge, and the girl was paroled. The dress was not found.

J. T. SCHARF'S INTERPRETER IN TROUBL

THE ASSISTANT OF THE SPECIAL CHINESE IN-SPECTOR ARRESTED ON A CHARGE OF SELLING HIS INFLUENCE-TO HAVE A HEARING TODAY.

When J. Thomas Scharf, who had been appointed a special Chinese inspector at this port, first came here to revolutionize the "Chinese business" at this port, he began by making a report charging certain Custom House officials with receiving bribes for allowing Chinamen to enter the country, and by hiring an interpreter. This interpreter was mony that Scharf has had men detained for over a week on board of the ships upon which they entered the port. Yesterday Charles was a prisoner in the Tombs Police Court, having been arrested by Detectives Heidelberg and Nugent. The complaint was made by a certain Chu Shea, who reported to Inspector Byrnes a week ago that Charles tried to get money out of him on the ground that unless he paid Charles $75 he would prevent the landing of Chu Shea's partner, who was then on the way from China to this country. Charles said that he was a United States inspector and could prevent the landing of the man if he wished to. Chu Shea told the inspector that he knew of three men who had paid Charles money to prevent his interference in the landing of their relatives who were coming to this

The inspector immediately sent out the two detectives, and on Wednesday night they caught harles with money in his pocket which had been eccived by him a moment or two before from Chu Shea. The detectives were where they could see the transfer of the money. A few hours after Charles had been arrested Colonel Montgomery, the special agent who is in charge of the special agents at this port, from testimony which he had received from various sources, decided to ask the Treasury Department to dismiss Charles. Charles was held by the police justice until to-day, when, it is said, six other complaints will be made against him.

"Kunnel" Scharf, the Chinese inspector, was greatly disturbed when he learned that his chief assistant was under arrest. It is known that he went to the prison where Charles was under arand saw him and secured a statement. Charles told him that he had been in the habit of borrowing money from the man from whom he received the $75, and that he had borrowed this sum to pay his rent. Inasmuch as an envelope containing $129 was on its way from Washington for Charles, the story that he wanted the money to pay his rent is not believed.

Two of the Chinamen who were on the Saratoga which arrived in port on Monday, were examined by Collector Kilbreth yesterday. They are the hy Collector Kilbreth yesterday. They are the first two out of 134 cases wherein Scharf seems to have made out anything of a case. In these two cases the men say that they are students, and that they are to be supported by relatives in this city and Jersey City. On them were found letters directing them to report to Chinese laundrymen in both cities. The Collector thought that this was strange, and he decided to hold the two men until to-day. Their names are Gee Ah Tek and Young Kee. The other two men on the Saratoga were released.

ONCE RICH, NOW CHARGED WITH FORGERY.

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Leonard Tappen, of Patchogue, L. I., who not long ago inherited a small fortune. The money has all been spent, and it is alleged that the young man two checks and two notes, to which he signed the names of prominent Patchogue business men. He has left town. It is thought he is hiding in Hempstead. A deputy sheriff has gone there for him. Tappen is twenty-one years old. His brother is a prominent cigar manufacturer.

Courlander, jr., of the Pennsylvania Railroad, who is General William J. Sewell's son-in-law. The Governor first dined with these men at the home of the Essex Club, in Newark, after which they were driven to Waverly, where President Gaddis received the Governor at the tent on the hill. Mrs. Werts was the guest of George R. Gray. While the Governor received the men. Mrs. Werts visited the art building, the cattle sheds, the horticultural tent and other places of interest. The attendance of women and children at the fair yesterday was a marked feature, for they came in thousands and crowded the tents and buildings. A great many Grand Army veterans were also present. The politicians were as plentiful as grasshoppers in haying time, and the Democratic and Republican county and district leaders held conferences with their lieutenants in different parts of the fair grounds.
